General Terms & Condition

General conditions

The legal relationships between the Supplier and the Buyer shall be governed exclusively by the following Terms and Conditions of Purchasing. No conflicting or divergent conditions shall be accepted. These General Terms and Conditions cover all goods and services supplied in connection with purchase contracts and contracts for work and materials and apply exclusively to all legal relations between the Supplier and the Buyer. Insofar as no applicable specific or supplementary regulations are contained herein, the provisions of the general law shall apply. Individual agreements shall prevail over these General Terms and conditions. The acceptance of goods or services without reservation (hereinafter uniformly referred to as 'goods' or 'supplied items') or unconditional payment by the Buyer in no way signifies acceptance of the General Terms and Conditions of the Supplier.

Offer, Orders and Calls for Delivery

If the Buyer asks the Supplier to submit an offer, the Supplier must meet the specifications precisely in terms of quantity and characteristics, and expressly notify the Buyer if there are any deviations. The offer must be submitted free of charge. Delivery contracts (orders and acceptances) and requests for delivery must be in writing. Once agreed in writing, orders and requests for delivery can also be made in text form (fax or email). Verbal agreements made after the contract has been concluded, in particular subsequent amendments and supplements to our Terms and Conditions of Purchasing, as well as subsidiary agreements, must be confirmed in writing by the Buyer. The Buyer may ask for reasonable design and construction modifications to be made to the supplied items. The repercussions, especially with respect to price differences and changes in delivery deadlines, must be negotiated in a reasonable, amicable manner. Changes to the object of the contract by the Supplier require the prior written consent of the Buyer. Purchase orders shall be binding only if issued by Buyer in text form. Purchase orders shall be deemed to have been accepted if the Supplier does not object to such within 2 weeks of receipt in text form and, in relation to any calls for delivery in terms of order planning, if the Supplier does not object to such within 5 work days of receipt in text form. Notwithstanding the above, each step taken by the Supplier to fulfil a purchase order or call for delivery shall constitute an acceptance of the respective purchase order or call for delivery

Prices, Payment

The agreed prices are fixed prices and include packing and freight costs but is subject to any applicable turnover tax or similar tax applicable under the law. Payments shall be due within 90 days of receipt of the performance or, if Buyer is sent an invoice or equivalent payment statement after receipt of the performance, after the receipt of such document. Payment by Buyer shall not constitute any recognition of the goods or services being contractually compliant. If goods delivered early are accepted, the due date for payment shall be based on the agreed payment deadline; in cases of doubt, it shall be no earlier than after the agreed delivery date.

Delivery and deadlines, Late delivery, Contractual penalties

The delivery deadlines and periods quoted in the order are binding. The factor used to determine whether the delivery deadline or period has been met is receipt of the goods at the place of use or fulfillment specified or agreed by the Buyer. In business relations with entrepreneurs, the place of fulfillment is the plant of the Buyer specified in the order, unless another plant is specifically named. If, in exceptional circumstances, the goods are not 'delivered duty paid' (DDP pursuant to Incoterms 2010), the Supplier must prepare the goods for dispatch promptly, allowing the customary length of time for loading and dispatch, and ship these deliveries at the lowest available cost, unless the Buyer has specified a different form of transportation in writing. In other respects, the Supplier shall negotiate with the Buyer's haulage contractor. The Buyer is entitled to alter agreed delivery dates if this is required for the smooth running of the Buyer's company, provided this does not constitute an unreasonable imposition on the Supplier. Partial deliveries and early deliveries are not permitted, unless the Buyer has expressly granted its approval. If the Supplier delivers goods early without the express consent of the Buyer, the Buyer shall be entitled to refuse to accept them and return them or store them with a third party at the Supplier's expense and risk. Accepting late delivery of goods or services without reservation does not imply that the Buyer is waiving the compensation claims to which it is consequently entitled; this shall apply until full payment has been made of the monies owed by the Buyer for the goods or services concerned. If agreed deadlines fail to be met, statutory provisions shall apply. If the Supplier anticipates problems which might prevent him from meeting the deadline or supplying the agreed quality of goods, it must inform the Buyer immediately, stating the reasons and detailing the consequences and suitable preventative measures. If a faster mode of transportation is required to meet the delivery deadline, the Supplier shall bear the additional cost. The Buyer is also entitled to impose a contractual penalty of 0.5% for each commenced week of default, up to a maximum of 5 % of the total value of the order. The contractual penalty shall be offset against any compensation claims awarded as a result of failure to meet the deadline. If the Supplier is responsible for installation or assembly, it shall meet all the necessary ancillary costs unless otherwise agreed. The Supplier shall bear the risk until acceptance by the Buyer or its representative at the place to which the goods are to be delivered as per the contract. The Supplier guarantees that outgoing goods will be examined thoroughly to ensure zero-defect delivery. They are accepted with the proviso that they will be examined for defects, in particular to ensure that they are accurate, complete and fit for purpose. The Buyer is entitled to inspect the supplied items to the extent and as soon as this is possible in the ordinary course of business. It shall notify the Supplier immediately of any defects it discovers. To this extent, the Supplier waives the objection of late notification of defects. Unless other evidence is provided, the numbers of items, weights and dimensions ascertained by the Buyer during the incoming goods inspection shall be authoritative. The Buyer has the right to use software included in the scope of delivery and its documentation, with the agreed performance characteristics, in accordance with the contractually agreed use of the product. It may also create a back-up copy without express consent having to be granted. The place of delivery for any supplies shall be the place of receipt or use (Buyer address stated in the purchase order). The transfer of the risk for goods from the Supplier to Continental shall take place in accordance with the agreed Incoterm. If no such agreement has been made, delivery shall be DDP (Incoterms 2010 International Chamber of Commerce at Paris) to the place of receipt or use set out in the Purchase Order.

Packaging, delivery note, invoice, origin of goods

Unless it is supplied on loan, the packaging is to be charged at its documented cost price and itemized separately in the offer. At the Buyer's request, the Supplier must remove the packaging at its own expense unless otherwise agreed in an individual case. The Buyer must be issued with a delivery note for each consignment. Duplicates must be marked as such. The invoice must contain at least the following information: supplier number, date and number of purchasing order and/or call for delivery and purchase agreement, quantity and material number, number and date of delivery note, gross and net weight (stated individually), additional Buyer data (e.g. unloading point) and agreed payment terms. If the invoice relates to more than one order, the above-mentioned information is to be itemized for each order. The invoice may only refer to the delivery note. If the Supplier neglects to supply the minimum information required, it shall be held accountable for any resulting consequences, including administration and payment delays, unless it can demonstrate that it was not responsible for these consequences. A supplier resident in the EU must document the country of origin of the goods to the Buyer by means of a long-term supplier declaration; a supplier not resident in the EU must produce a preference certificate or certificate of origin. The Buyer must be informed automatically and without delay if the country of origin changes. The Supplier shall indemnify the Buyer against any costs arising from its use of inaccurate, incomplete or erroneous information or documents of origin.

Quality and documentation

The Supplier warrants that the quality of the goods to be supplied to Buyer shall conform on an on-going basis with the latest state of science and technology at the time. Any changes to the product or processes must be reported. The Supplier shall establish and maintain a suitable, documented quality assurance system corresponding to the latest state of the art. In this regard a "zero-defect strategy" shall be binding. The Supplier shall keep records, in particular in relation to its quality inspections, and shall make such available to Buyer upon request. The Supplier hereby agrees to quality audits by Buyer or, a party appointed by Buyer, for the evaluation of the effectiveness of the Supplier's quality assurance system and, if necessary, such shall involve a customer of Buyer. The Supplier shall be responsible for all rules and agreements with Buyer being passed on to and implemented by its subcontractors. In its quality documentation for all products, the Supplier must record when and by whom defect-free production was ensured. These records must be kept for 15 years and submitted to the Buyer for scrutiny upon request. The Supplier may reduce this period if it can exclude the possibility that use of the products may be hazardous to life or health. The Supplier must impose the same obligation on its own suppliers to the extent permitted under the law. The Supplier is aware that WITTUR's products are used worldwide. Consequently, the documentation and technical data sheets it produces are to be written in at least English.

Warranty, liability

Unless otherwise specified below, the legal provisions governing material defects and defects of title shall apply. The warranty shall extend to the delivery of goods and services of the Supplier's sub-suppliers. The Buyer shall be entitled to claim for any defect if such defect is not known to Buyer at the time of the concluding of the contract for reasons of gross negligence. Buyer shall have the right to determine the type of any subsequent performance. The Supplier may refuse to perform the type of subsequent performance selected by the Buyer only if such is inequitable. The Supplier shall bear all costs resulting from any subsequent performance including any costs of the disassembly or re-installation of defective parts, transport costs, as well as disposal costs and any other costs connected with the subsequent performance. If the Supplier does not fulfil its obligations for subsequent performance within the time period set by Buyer, the Buyer may rectify any defect itself or have such undertaken by a third party and require the Supplier to compensate for the necessary costs and expenses. If any subsequent performance by the Supplier is unsuccessful, if the Supplier is in delay with any subsequent performance or in any other urgent cases, no setting of a further deadline shall be necessary and the Buyer may undertake the necessary measures itself or through a third party at the cost and expense of the Supplier. Buyer shall not be obliged to deliver, if a product which it has manufactured and/or sold is returned to the Buyer because the object of the contract delivered by the Supplier is defective, or if the purchase price paid to the Buyer is reduced or a claim is made in another way as a result, it reserves the right to seek redress from the Supplier; no time-limit shall apply as would normally be required for rights relating to defects.

Assignment of claims

The Buyer may withhold payment or declare set-off in the case of counterclaims

Other liability

In the case of product liability claims against the Buyer, the Supplier shall indemnify the Buyer inasmuch as and to the extent to which the damage was caused by a defect in the goods delivered by the Supplier. However, in the case of fault-based liability, this shall only apply if the Supplier is at fault. If the cause of the damage lies in the case of the responsibility of the Supplier, the burden of proof shall be borne by the latter. In such cases, the Supplier shall bear all the costs and expenses, including the costs of any prosecution or recall campaign. The Supplier undertakes to contract public liability insurance and product liability insurance, which includes cover for product-related damage and recall expenses. Cover of up to € 2 million per occurrence must be provided for each of the areas of personal injury and property damage, and product-related damage and recall expenses. If the Supplier becomes aware of accidents or other events of significance to the product safety of the supplied goods, it must inform the Buyer accordingly at once, and for-ward any related documents in its possession to the latter.

Inventions, industrial property rights

The Supplier hereby grants the Buyer free, transferable rights of use for an unlimited period to patentable inventions arising from the legal relationship between the Supplier and the Buyer, in particular where development services are provided. The Supplier shall ensure that it can meet its obligation of utilization and transfer as far as organizational matters are concerned. The Supplier is aware that the Buyer's products are used worldwide. It gives its assurance that it informed the Buyer before the contract was awarded of the use of published and unpublished industrial rights and industrial rights applications owned or licensed by its company, in respect of the supplied items. If claims are made against the Buyer because of a breach of an industrial right abovementioned, the Supplier shall intervene in the dispute and bear all the costs. Should there be a breach of third-party rights, the Buyer shall be entitled to compensation from the Supplier for the loss or damage arising therefrom, regardless of its level of culpability in the matter. The Buyer shall be entitled to obtain a permit from the rights holder at the Supplier's expense to use the goods or services concerned.

Title

The Supplier may only enforce retention of title rights if these are the subject of a separate explicit agreement. No extended or expanded retention of title shall be deemed to have been agreed. The Buyer retains all proprietary rights and copyright relating to its illustrations, drawings, models, templates, calculations and other documents and information. The Supplier may only use the above documents and information for the purpose of manufacturing the object of the contract in accordance with the Buyer's order. They shall be kept by the Supplier on behalf of the Buyer and must be returned automatically to the Buyer once the contract has been fulfilled. The Supplier is responsible for the care, maintenance and partial renewal of the abovementioned items and shall bear all associated cost and expenses. The Buyer shall retain title in all items it provides to the Supplier. Any processing or reconfiguring by the Supplier shall proceed on behalf of the Buyer. If the property of the Buyer is processed with the goods of others, the Buyer shall acquire co-ownership of the new product in the proportion of the value of the Buyer's own property (purchase price plus VAT) to that of the other items processed at the time of processing. If an item provided by the Buyer is mixed with the items of others, the Buyer shall acquire co-ownership of the new product in the proportion of the value of the Buyer's own property (purchase price plus VAT) to that of the items with which it is mixed at the time of mixing. If mixing takes place in such a way that the Supplier's item is to be regarded as the main item, it is agreed that the Supplier shall transfer a proportional share in ownership to the Buyer. The Supplier shall keep the sole title or co-title on behalf of the Buyer. The Buyer shall retain all rights, in particular title, to all tools, moulds and other manufacturing equipment which it makes available to the Supplier for the purpose of fulfilling the contract. They may only be used for the purpose of manufacturing in accordance with the Buyer's order. They shall be kept by the Supplier on behalf of the Buyer and must be returned to the Buyer once the contract has been fulfilled. Tools, moulds and other manufacturing equipment made by the Supplier itself to complete an order and which are invoiced separately to the Buyer in full shall become the property of the Buyer at the time of their manufacture. If only part of the cost is incurred, the Buyer shall acquire only pro rata ownership; the Buyer is entitled at any time to demand complete transfer of ownership concurrently with payment of the outstanding cost. The tools, moulds and other manufacturing equipment shall initially be kept on behalf of the Buyer and may only be used to complete the Buyer's order. Tools, moulds and other manufacturing equipment owned by the Buyer must be supplied to the Buyer immediately at the latter's request after completion of the contract or if the contract is terminated prematurely. If the Buyer only has co-ownership of the tools, moulds or other manufacturing equipment, this shall apply only if it acquires sole ownership concurrently with payment of the outstanding cost. The Supplier must undertake to provide adequate insurance against fire and water damage and theft at its own expense for the tools, moulds and other manufacturing equipment referred to in clauses 12.5 and 12.6. The Supplier hereby assigns all claims arising from the insurance to the Buyer, and the Buyer hereby accepts the assignment. The Supplier must conduct servicing, inspection and repair work when it is due and at its own expense. The Supplier must give notification of any damage or breakdowns at once. The Supplier must hand over goods whose return is requested in a due and proper condition. These provisions shall supplement those concluded in any tool rental agreement.

Spare Parts

The Supplier shall keep in store spare parts for the goods supplied to the Buyer for a period of at least 15 years after supply. Subject to the prior written agreement of the Buyer the Supplier may cease production of spare parts for the goods supplied to the Buyer. Written notification to Buyer of the intent to cease production must - subject to the above - take place at least 12 months before the actual ending of production.

Confidentiality

It shall remain the exclusive property of Buyer, and may only be divulged to individuals at the Supplier's company on a need-to-know basis for the purpose of affecting the delivery to the Buyer; such persons are in turn obliged to observe confidentiality. The Buyer retains all rights to such information (including copyright and the entitlement to apply for industrial property rights). If the Buyer has received such information from third parties, this proviso shall also apply vis-à-vis these third parties. Items made on the basis of documents drafted by the Buyer, such as drawings, models, etc., or on the basis of its confidential information or with its tools or copies thereof, may neither be used by the Supplier itself, nor offered or supplied to third parties. This shall also apply mutatis mutandis to print jobs. The obligation to observe confidentiality shall survive the termination of the contract. It shall expire only when confidential information becomes generally known without the Supplier having been in breach of the confidentiality commitment. The Supplier shall impose a corresponding obligation on sub-suppliers.

In the case of force majeure, industrial disputes, operational disruptions arising through no fault of its own, unrest, official measures or other unavoidable incidents, the Buyer shall be entitled - notwithstanding its other rights - to withdraw from the contract in whole or in part, if as a consequence there is a serious reduction in its requirements and the situation persists for an extended period.
